Dear Friends,

It would be easy and rather cliché to write that "God is doing a new thing" as we begin another new year. However, we live in very challenging times and in that vein, I prefer to be real, yet still hopeful as I write about us, the sheep of God's pasture and the enemy of our souls.

"Our Lord Jesus did not teach us about predators in order to teach animal control or children's fables. Wolves and sheep cannot coexist. When wolves appear most casual and innocent, even interesting to watch, they're actually studying you and sizing up their prey for the attack. The more indifferent they seem, the more serious the danger. They are preparing for the pack attack. The more comfortable they appear, the deadlier they are." (unknown)

That's a great description of the way the wicked one and his demons work. When a person is going through an extremely difficult season or has experienced a tragedy in his or her life, that's when the hosts of Satan attack most viciously.

If you're going through a difficult time, don't isolate yourself away from other brothers and sisters in Christ.

This is precisely the time to nudge your way right into the middle of the flock ... and snuggle right up next to the Good Shepherd. That is the safest place for you and I to be.

Have a Blessed New Year!

Laborers together in Christ,

— Tony
