God bless you.

People were bringing little children to Jesus to have Him touch them, but the disciples rebuked them. When Jesus saw this, He was indignant. He said to them, "Let the little children come to me and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these." (Mark 10:13-14)

When you're the parent of a prodigal child, you sometimes receive unsolicited advice: "You need to let her fall flat on her face. After all, kids need to learn from their own mistakes."

It may be difficult for other parents to understand exactly what you're up against with a prodigal son or daughter. But God understands, dear one. He knows what it's like to have a world full of prodigals, and He desires for us to bring ours to Him through committed, passionate prayer. Prayer combined with a believing mother's or father's love and faith is powerful. When placed in the hands of Jesus, it is invincible. Obstacles will surely come, but perseverance in prayer will lead to a breakthrough. Jesus' love for our children is even more passionate than our own and He longs to forgive and welcome our prodigals back home into His loving arms.

God has given us our precious children for eternal purposes, and there's no greater blessing and inheritance we can pass on to them than our prayers for their salvation. We have a Savior who longs for our children to come to Him! Let others say what they will. We have His promises and that's all that matters. There's a place in the heart of Jesus for prodigals. Especially our prodigals as we bring them before Him in prayer.

"My Mother's prayers! Oh, my sweet, blessed Mother's prayers. Did ever a boy have such a Mother as I had? For twenty-five years I have not heard her pray, till tonight I have heard her prayers over again." (Testimony of a man who came to Christ during the 1857-59 Prayer Meeting Revival, years after his Mother's death)

Laborers together in Christ,

— Tony
